The Evolution of the Earth and Man and the Influence of the Stars: 14 Lectures, Dornach, Switzerland, June 30 - Sept. 24, 1924 (CW 354) (Collected Works) Rudolf Steiner, Stephen Usher

Just as we have natural desires for food, shelter, and human contact so we have a spiritual desire for knowledge. All too often the obstacles to satisfying this desire are so great that in the end we silence our questions and give up hope of knowing. In this book we meet the thirst for knowledge of a group of workmen as they put questions to Rudolf Steiner. They want to know about everything from the evolution of the world, the influences of the stars, nutrition, the sense of smell, Chinese culture, and volcanoes, to mention a few. And what lively enthusiastic answers they receive! Join them in their quest and take a step in the realm of living thought and see if your thirst for knowing isn't revived and set on fire!
