"From dreams, where thought in fancy's maze runs mad, To reason, that heav'n lighted lamp in man, Once more we wake." Young's Might Thoughts. Oct. 27th.--Being roused before sunrise by various busy sounds, we got out of the dust in which we had been rolling all night; and to add to our discomfort, we had no water to wash ourselves. The encampment presented a very busy scene. The she dromedaries were being milked in wooden bowls, and hot cakes of unleavened paste mixed with butter, were baking for breakfast. These cakes are baked by being spread upon hot stones, upon which a fire has been kindled, and then heaped over with burning ashes. Numerous dromedaries of all sizes were wandering off into the desert to seek for pasturage, among which were some beautiful young ones of a cream colour. Some were much lighter and more elegantly formed, with longer, straighter legs than the others; these the Bedouins train expressly for riding, and some of them will trot very fast, and will perform very long journeys. I must here remark, that the camels possessed by the Arab tribes are all of the species called dromedary, distinguished from the double humped Bactrian camel, by having only one hump. The double humped camel is unknown among the Bedouins of these parts. Of these dromedaries there are two species, the one strong and heavy, calculated to bear heavy burthens, the other light and active, and trained for riding, called deloul, presenting ...
