Developments in Drugs Used in Anaesthesia (Boerhaave Series for Postgraduate Medical Education)

This book reflects the proceedings of the Boerhaave Course, "Developments in drugs used in Anaesthesia", held on May 7th and 8th 1981 at Leiden University. The goal of the organizers of the course was to obtain a better understanding of the pharmacological and clinical applications of the drugs used in the field of Anaesthesiology. In my opinion, there is a constant need for post-graduate teaching not only on a clinical basis, but also in the so-called "basic sciences". This especially applies to anaesthetists. I would like to express my thanks to the speakers, who were all so kind as to send their manuscripts in time for publishing, and to thank the co-editors of this book, as well as Mr. B.P. Commandeur, from Martinus Nijhoff Publishers for their fruitful co-operation. Last but not least, I would like to thank the secretarial staff of my department for all the work they did arranging for manuscripts to be in the right places at the right times. John Spierdijk

THE USE OF H₂ BLOCKERS T.H. STANLEY In the last decade a new important histamine receptor, H₂ receptor, has been discovered which has major importance in gastric acid production. In addition, a new drug Cimetidine (Tagamet) which blocks the H₂ receptor has been synthesized. The object of this presentation will be to discuss the possible role of this interesting drug (Cimetidine) before and during operation and possible postoperatively as well.
